Andover Artists Exhibit In November Club Show

On Monday afternoon members of the November Club and their guests gathered at the Clubhouse for an exhibit of Andover art. The interest and appeal of this exhibit sponsored by the Art Department and arranged by its committee under the able leadership of Miss Alice Jenkins, lay in the wide range of subjects, mediums, and art trends displayed and the large group of Andover artists represented.

Oils, water colors, crayons and charcoals, and sculpture in soap gave variety and charm to a showing in which each artist contributing and each work loaned, had an important part. Outstanding among the landscapes were Harry Sutton's realistic "Water Scene," Cornelius Wood's snow-capped mountains exquisite in coloring, Mrs. George Holmes' "New Hampshire Woods" beautifully illustrative of the old school of painting, and Mrs. Joseph Ashton's excellent water color of the marshes at Hampton, N. H. Greatly admired were the noteworthy flower paintings, "Amaryllis" and "Mums" of Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Wallace respectively, and the still life compositions in which Miss Alice Olliff depicted in soft mellow tones an arrangement of fruit and Mrs. Robert Maynard a collection of vividly colored toys.

William Thompson's dogs seemed truly real and were striking studies showing fine draftsmanship. It was especially gratifying to see the distinctive chalk work of Virginia Moody, the holder of the November Club Art Scholarship for this year. Applied art was beautifully demonstrated in the delicately antiqued screen of Mrs. Ezell ond the tray designs of Mrs. Bartlett and Miss Jenkins. Mrs. Tewksbury contributed the one work in sculpture—a shrine in triptych with minutely carved soap figures. In the field of portraiture Frances Dalton's "Christine" was unsurpassed.

Beside the individual artists who cooperated with the Art committee in the exhibit, were the Art departments of Phillips and Abbot Academies, Andover Public Schools, St. Augustine's and the Frances Dalton Studio. The work of Patrick Morgan's students at Phillips Academy illustrated the modern trend in painting, while a true sense of composition was manifest in the group of still life arranged by Miss Hatch and her art pupils at Abbot. Pupils of Andover's Grade and High schools under the able supervision of Miss Alice Olliff contributed an interesting collection of crayons, pencil sketches, and water colors on the subject "Andover," and St. Augustine's sent original, conventional designs of intricate beauty.

At the close of the afternoon, tea was served with Mrs. Frank Brigham and Mrs. Jesse Bottomley pouring. The Valentine motifs used in the unusually lovely decoration of the tea tables added festivity to the occasion.

The committee is grateful to all those who gave so willingly of their time and talent to make the exhibit an event both worthwhile and interesting.

The list of exhibitors: Maud Morgan, Patrick Morgan, Clare Hayes, Mrs. Loris Stefani, Mrs. Fred A. Wallace, Mrs. Frances P. McClellan, Mrs. George M. R. Holmes, Miss Alice Bell, Frances Dalton, Mrs. Robert E. Maynard, Mrs. Stephanie Sorota, Cornelius Wood, Miss Alice Olliff, Harry Sutton, Virginia Moody, Mrs. Celia Hoey, Mrs. N. E. Bartlett, H. A. Trainee Writes Of Army Life

What kind of a life do Andover's young trainees lead? Ted Hinman left here about a month ago, and after staying a few nights at Devens he was shunted off to Texas. Here are his impressions:

The second contingent of Andover volunteers were inducted into the U. S. Army late Friday afternoon, January 3rd, after an all-day physical examination that saw two of our number drop by the wayside. The remaining five: Johnny Cederberg, Ed Coates, Lionel Boisvert, Jiggs Gorrie and myself pulled into Devens about 9 o'clock and were soon sound asleep in comfortable heated wooden barracks. The next morning we awoke to start a life new and different to each and every one of us.

Our first concern was the food which we found perfect. Furthermore, second and third helpings were not refused. At Devens, our meals were served cafeteria style; and if patience is a virtue, we must all be saints; because on the average we had to wait in line a half an hour for each meal.

We were immediately shown how to make a bed army style. If our bunks were not made up just so, one of the "non-coms" would run down the line of beds, messing every imperfect bunk no matter how neatly it was made. In other words, there is only one way to make a bed in the army. The soldiers in each barracks were responsible for the daily cleaning of the same before work started each day. This work divided among the lot of us took no time at all and assured us a spotless place to live in.

The first two days we had hardly a moment's rest. Saturday morning we were given inoculations for smallpox, diphtheria, and typhoid. It sounds tough, but it was nothing. Later in the morning we were given a classification test which was ridiculously easy. In the afternoon we had our personal interview, which completed our classification. Sunday we were "processed." In other words, we were issued our equipment and for the first time felt like soldiers. I won't say what we looked like, for some of us received vintage of 1917 blouses and coats.

Lectures on various phases of military life and our first taste of close order drill occupied the days during our brief stay at Devens. Friday afternoon (the 10th) 310 of us left by special train to join the 211th Coast Artillery-Anti-Aircraft at Camp Hulen, Palcios, Texas. Ed Coates was kept back in New England because he is a printer by trade and they needed him. Jiggs Gorrie also preferred to remain in the First Corps Area.

The three-day train trip was quite an experience for all of us. We found plenty to keep us busy and we were given a workout whenever the train made a long stop. We arrived at Palacius early Monday morning and we were given a warm reception. As most of you know, our regiment, the 211th, is the Massachusetts National Guard which was inducted into the regular army last fall. More commonly referred to as the "First Corps Cadets," it is the oldest military unit in the U. S. in continuous service. We are very proud of that record as well as our integrity in being 100 per cent Massachusetts. We are now 1700 strong, just a few hundred short of a full war strength unit.

Palcios (I think it's on the map) was more or less of a ghost town until Camp Hulen appeared. It has mushroomed overnight, and with it has Palcios. It happens to be below sea level, so the mud is ever with us. However, the spring weather and longer evenings atone for that. Although we are right on the Gulf of Mexico, swimming is taboo; because sting rays, devil rays, and poisonous jellyfish infest the waters. We also have to be on the alert on land due to the presence of rattlesnakes, scorpions, centipedes, and black widow spiders.

Besides the 211th there are regiments from New Hampshire, Texas, Missouri, Louisiana, and Kentucky, so there are nearly 12,000 officers and men stationed here. We expect to be back in New England to march in Boston, April 19th. This summer we will either be in Camp Edwards in Brewster or Fort McKinley off Portland. All regiments here at Hulen are anti-aircraft units. Ours consists of a searchlight and sound detector battery, three big 3-inch gun batteries, four machine gun batteries, and two headquarters batteries.

We live in heated tents here, six to a tent. The food is not as good as Devens' but our appetites are so keen we don't bother about being fussy. The water here is so full of chlorine it is quite unpalatable, and with poor water good coffee is impossible. The officers and the "non-coms" here treat us perfectly. We just completed the regular three months' training course in less than a month, and have been assigned to our regular batteries as full-fledged soldiers. John Cederberg is in Battery E with the 30 calibre Browning machine guns, while Leo Boisvert and myself are with Battery D and the big 3-inch guns.

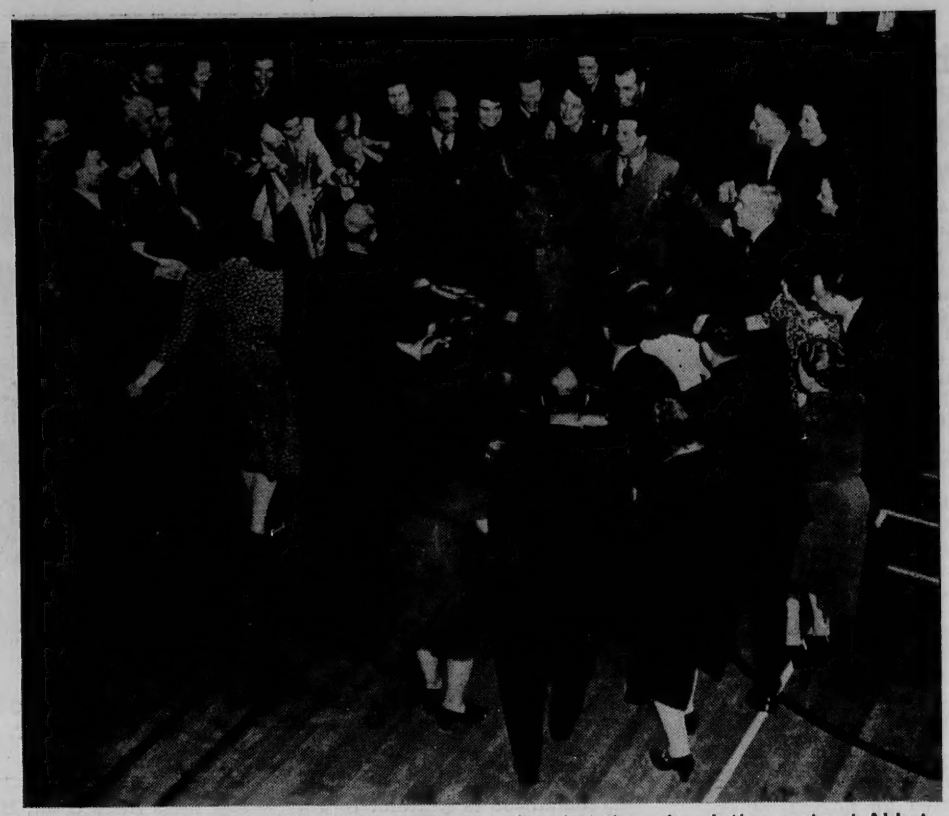

Here is a daily routine. Reveille at 6:15; calisthenics 6:30; wash-up and clean tent 6:45; mess at 7:00. Morning period, 7:30-11:30; mess 12; afternoon period 1-4; retreat 5:00; mess 5:15; taps at 11. Marches, drill and lectures fill the work period. Each battery does guard and policing duty every eight days. Some of our hikes are thirty-mile overnight bivouacs, each of us carrying a full pack of thirty-six pounds. As yet we have been on the firing range only once. It was loads of fun and some of us received pretty good scores.

We trainees are still quarantined within the camp area, so we've seen little of Texas. Our evenings are spent at the post exchange, the camp theatre, or in our tents writing letters, swapping yarns, or cleaning our guns.

It's pretty close to taps now, so I'll finish up. Jack Cederberg and Lionel Boisvert join me in sending our regards to all our Andover friends. We certainly appreciate their letters.

Sincerely yours,
Ted Hinman

FRONT COVER

If you hear of anything social going on in Andover these days, the chances are about two to one that it's for the Chinese, and if it's for the Chinese the chances are a hundred to one that Cornelius Wood is behind it. For over a year Mr. Wood has been quietly working in behalf of the Bureau for Medical Aid to China, but recently his efforts have expanded into a series of parties held by Andover and North Andover folk to aid the cause. One of the most outstanding events will take place on February 22 when a ball to honor the Father of our Country will serve as an aid-China function. In the past one of the most outstanding has been the subscription party held at Abbot academy, made colorful by the valuable Chinese robes worn by several of the ladies. In the Surette picture on the front cover are: Miss McKee, Miss Dodge, Miss Hearsey, Miss Friskin, Miss Tucker, Miss Hancock and Miss Hume.

TOWN GOVERNMENT

REV. MR. MORRIS IN SCHOOL BOARD RACE

The sudden entrance of Rev. Albert C. Morris into the school committee race and the equally sudden withdrawal of John MacKenzie from the same race were the only last-minute changes as nominations closed last Thursday afternoon.

All the other candidates remain as printed in last week's Townsman.

Present Problem At Bradlee School

If it were in Germany, some official would say: "Close up those grades," and they'd be closed.

But this is America. Last Thursday night Superintendent Kenneth L. Sherman went to a meeting of the Ballardvale P. T. A. and put to the parents a problem: "Next year your fifth and sixth grades will be very small, probably not totalling over 7 pupils. What should we do about it?" He urged them to think it over, to form a committee if they desired to meet with the school board. Next Monday evening at 7 a meeting of all interested will be held in the Community room.

Superintendent Sherman chose Founders' day as the occasion for his demonstration of Democracy at work. Edward C. Manning of the high school faculty had preceded him with a fine talk on English courses. Also on the program were solos by Harry Peatman, assisted by Mrs. John Anderson, and community singing. Mrs. Miles Ward, first president of the P. T. A., cut the birthday cake, and a bouquet of jonquils was sent to Mrs. Alice Schneider, the oldest member of the organization.

A candlelight pageant was presented by past and present officers, with the leader, Mrs. James Schofield, being assisted by Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Robert Mitchell, Mrs. Stermey Cormey, Mrs. Miles Ward, Leslie Hadley, Clyde Mears and Michael Bell.

Spitfire Campaign Getting Under way

The preliminary organization of the committee planning to raise funds to help Andover, England, buy a Spitfire plane, is now rapidly getting underway.

For the next two weeks it is hoped that voluntary contributions will be sent in, following which there will be an intensive canvass. It is hoped to raise $4000 in Andover and $2000 in North Andover.

Edward Anderson at the National bank is treasurer and will receive contributions.

Further aid to the town of Andover, England, has been dispatched in the form of a donation of $1815.25 raised by the employees of the Shawsheen Mills for a rolling kitchen.

Enthusiastic meetings have already been held for the project both in Andover and No. Andover.

Three Andover Men In Next Induction

North Andover will bear the brunt of the next group of draftees to leave Andover February 18. Of the 12 going only three are from Andover, and furthermore the two alternates are from North Andover, also.

The Andover boys going are: Mason Gould, George Brackett and Murray Urquhart. From North Andover the following have been selected: Renaud J. Baril, Thomas F. Collins, Thomas J. Montanaro, Charles W. Johnston, Edward I. Melamed, Frederick G. Bastian, Herbert F. Hicks, Ernest M. Gerguson and Paul A. Lanni.

Alternates are Andrew J. Morris and William C. Goodrich.

Roman Demkoski and John J. Gallant of Andover and Edgar R. Kelley of North Andover were turned down in Boston last week, and they were replaced by Walter H. Konica of Lynn, formerly of North Andover; Kenneth D. Grant and Charles A. Murray of Andover.

To The Merchants Of Andover

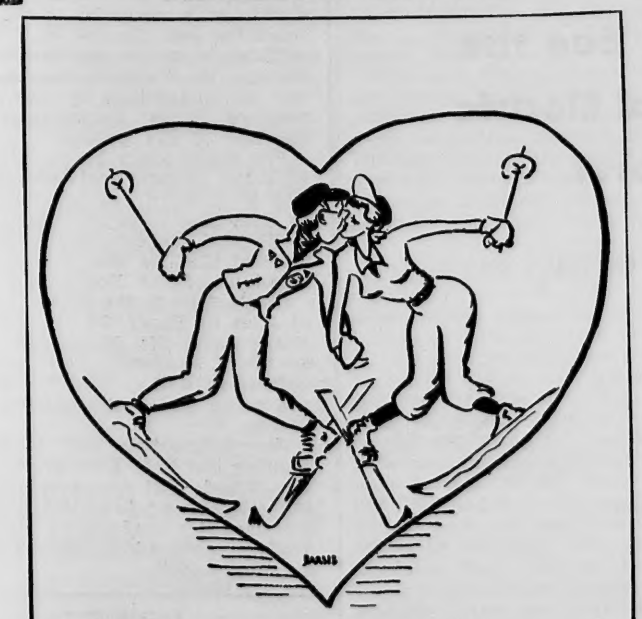

George Washington's birthday this year comes on Saturday a week hence. In the intervening time you are going to wonder whether you should stay open or close up for that day. If you're a non-food store, you probably will decide to close because the Boston and Lawrence stores are closing and therefore people will not go out-of-town to buy just because you're closed. If you're a food merchant, you will feel perplexed because the Lawrence food merchants are staying open and you might be afraid that Andover people who ordinarily buy in your store will buy in Lawrence instead.

Our Legislature has made George Washington's birthday a legal holiday, and well it might. We in Andover revere Washington and we want his holiday observed to the fullest. A store staying open on that day is doing so contrary to the spirit which we the people want exemplified on that day. Therefore we hope that this year every merchant will close.

To The People Of Andover

If our merchants close on Saturday the 22nd, let's all show our appreciation. If they close, it will be to honor Washington; if you buy your groceries out-of-town that day, you certainly will not be demonstrating the same type of loyalty to Andover that Washington demonstrated for his new country. Buy your week-end food needs at your usual Andover store on Friday, the 21st, and then you can enjoy the holiday without scurrying around shopping.

Holt's Hill Becomes Public Reservation

The fiftieth anniversary of The Trustees of Public Reservations was observed at the annual conference and luncheon held on Febuary 5th in the roof ballroom at the Parker House, Boston. At that time announcement was made of the gift by Mrs. Charles W. Ward to The Trustees of Public Reservations of one hundred and fifty acres of land on Holt's Hill, Andover, as a memorial to her husband, the late Charles W. Ward.

This is to be known as the Charles W. Ward Reservation, and will be maintained by The Trustees of Public Reservations for the use of the public.

For many years Holt's Hill has been the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ward. It is interesting to note that after purchasing the Holt's Hill property, Mr. Ward discovered that he was a direct descendant of the Holt family.

Holt's Hill is the highest point of land in Essex County, and on clear days Mt. Monadnock and Southern Kearsarge are plainly visible, as well as Beverly Harbor and some of the tall buildings in Boston.

Very interesting and beautiful planting has been done by Mr. and Mrs. Ward. Ski jumps and toboggan slides have been built, which are used by students of Phillips Academy, and a bungalow built for the Boy Scouts.

WHERE TO GO WHAT TO DO

"Last but not least," in the Phillips Academy Concert Series which is attracting people not only from Andover and Lawrence, but from Newburyport, Lowell, Haverhill and Boston, the artists Luboshutz and Nemenoff will delight the audience with such selections as Mozart's The Magic Flute, the opening number, The Flight of the Bumble Bee, The Coronation Scene from Boris Godunof, and the Saint-Saens Variations of a Theme by Beethoven.

This duo-piano team has traveled extensively presenting similar programs for the enjoyment of everyone, and Phillips Academy faculty members consider themselves very fortunate that they should obtain such artists to present to the people of Andover.

The concert will be held at the Academy on February 28, so make plans to witness the double attraction of the famous piano team, Luboshutz and Nemenoff.

The Regional Art lecture which was scheduled for January 17 was postponed because of illness of the artist, Grant Wood; however, Phillips Academy is very fortunate in having been able to arrange the lecture for Friday, February 21, in George Washington Hall at 8:15.

The Addison Gallery will extend its present exhibition on "Regional Art," which has been independently arranged by the Gallery staff to supplement Mr. Wood's lecture. The paintings on exhibition consist of watercolors from five regions of the United States which have been assembled to encourage the observer to form his own opinion as to the effect of local influence on contemporary art.

Admission price for the lecture is only 25 cents; no admission to the exhibit following, including the paintings "Portrait of Henry Wallace," "Death on Ridge Road," "Fertility," and "Honorary Degree," all of which will provide the audience with a first hand knowledge of his art.

I guess you don't have to be told that the Punchard All Girls' Band will open the entertainment program and that Al St. Claire's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing until 1 o'clock.

With the three "Extra-specials" mentioned above I'm sure you'll all be looking for either William Stewart, David Nicoll, Leonard Saunders, Carl Stevens, William Hickey, George Waldie or Chief Dane as they are members of the committee in charge from whom you may purchase your tickets for only $1.00.

On Saturday evening the Community Association of Ballardvale is sponsoring a Valentine costume dance which is open to the public. A very small admission charge prevails and music will be furnished by Harold Phinney. With "Dan Tuckers," "Virginia Reels," "Paul Joneses," etc., along with prizes for the most appropriate costumes, a real "fun night" is in store for you. All those who attended the Hallowe'en party conducted by the same organization, are definitely planning to attend this, and they are bringing their friends, because "the more the merrier" you know.

This is one night that if you wear your heart on the outside, you stand a chance of winning a prize.

Fire or no fire, the Margaret Slattery Class of the Free Church is still rehearsing for the Minstrel show which is to be held in the Memorial Auditorium only one night, March 21, instead of the two dates previously mentioned. Mrs. John Souter will serve as interlocutor, and the following girls will act as end men: Ruby Laurie, Peg Laurie, Emma Stevens, Isabell Maclaren, Annie MacDonald and Elizabeth Moore.

For 25 years now, the Margaret Slattery Class has been conducting plays, minstrels, etc., and never yet has it been said that they failed in their cause. This should be all the more reason to be positively sure of a most enjoyable evening, as the 1941 Minstrels are expected to surpass all previous performances.

Two more functions which you must attend in the Vale are the whist party to be held in the Community rooms on Friday evening, sponsored by the members of the Y. M. A. C., and the other on March 1 which will be in the form of an amateur show conducted by the Royal Mountaineers of Ballardvale.

A real evening of varied pleasure is in store for you if you attend the St. Augustine's C. Y. O. Minstrel show to be held in St. Augustine's Hall on Tuesday evening, February 18, at 8:15, as I'm sure you will. We shall endeavor to mention some of the best numbers to be presented on the program to show you what a really fine program is being rehearsed: Specialties by Sally Reardon, Frankie McCarthy, Joe Winters, Justine Kennedy, James Sheard, and Alice Shorten; end songs, "Ferry Boat Serenade" by Bill Tammany; "The Old Shillalah" Mike O'Dowd; "Oh, You Beautiful Doll" Jimmy Morrissey; and "McNamara's Band" by Jimmy Winters. A portrait of Stephen Foster will be presented with Shirley Laccalaide presenting a reading and the playing of "Old Black Joe," "Beautiful Dreamer," "Oh, Susanna," acting as a background. The grand finale will be a tableau of The Liberty Bell by the entire company.

After this brief synopsis of the program I'm sure you'll all consider this a Red Letter event to be marked, not only on your calendar, but most of all in your memory.

RUBBISH

Rubbish is quite a customary thing at town meetings, and this year will be no exception save that a lot of the rubbish will be about rubbish.

Twice in the warrant speakers will be given an opportunity to talk about rubbish, once specifically about garbage and again specifically about where the rubbish will go. The town is being asked to appropriate $12,000 for the collection of garbage and it is also being asked to purchase a site in West Andover to be used as a waste disposal area, which in its present location on High street has been known as a dump.

Some persons are going to object to paying $12,000 a year for garbage collection; other persons are going to object to having a waste disposal area located so far from the center of population. There will be good reasons for objecting to both.

Possibly $12,000 is not too high a cost for garbage collection in a town the size of Andover. If this figure is not too high, Andover should make every effort to cut out some less desirable appropriation to make way for this one. First, however, a careful study of the possibility of municipal collection rather than private contract collection should be made. Our town Board of Public Works formerly used to hire trucks but it found that by buying a fleet of its own, it could save considerable money. Possibly this would hold true also in garbage collection; the town may be able to save by doing the work itself.

A public dump, to be of real advantage, shou'd be close enough to the center of population to make its use non-prohibitive. It would not seem to be wise to have a dump in West Andover if people would rather accumulate their rubbish at home than go 'way out there. And yet, there's the other side of the story. You can't have a dump near the center of population without disturbing the residents who live near that site. What is the solution of this dilemma?

If we're going to spend $12,000 for collection of something, why don't we collect rubbish instead of garbage? People do get their garbage collected by private collectors now, some of them charging only a dollar a year, but the private collection of tin cans and other refuse is not so amply taken care of. If we are going to have a dump away out in West Andover, why not have the town truck the refuse out there? That seems the only solution fair to all.

FIRE DAMAGES E. D. P. HOUSE

A group of E. D. P. fraternity boys left the Highland road frat house Friday evening after giving a young man his next-to-the-last night of "running." About an hour later the fire alarm rang, with firemen arriving in time to confine all the damage to a rug, a davenport, a radio and victrola.

Chief Buchan reported that a spark from the fireplace had apparently jumped the fireguard. The damage would have been considerably worse had not a retired instructor, Fred E. Newton, discovered the blaze when he did.

Looking Backward 33 Years

About 1908 the so-called cash and carry stores commenced to spread over the country. The story they told of the great savings they were passing on to their customers read like a fairy tale. Since then, thirty-three years ago, great food corporations have grown up with their wonderful service of furnishing you, the buying public, with a wheelbarrow to push around a store and wait on yourself. Is the cost of living any less because of this method? You know as well as we do that the cost of living is higher than ever. What about the Independent Merchants? They are still in existence serving those housewives who have figured out for themselves that the purported saving in trading in these wheelbarrow stores is still a fairy tale. They are the women who know it costs them no more to have their food orders assembled by a clerk and delivered to them than to leave their homes, do a clerk's work and carry home their order in all kinds of weather. For the Independent Merchants who are still serving the public after thirty-three years, we are going to have a 33 cent sale in celebration.

Here are thirty-three first-class food and household items for you to compare prices with the cash and carry and wheelbarrow stores. We will deliver them to you free no matter what the weather may be.

LOWELL DOLLAR DAYS

Thousands of shoppers from suburban areas of Lowell will flock there early Friday when Lowell's Mid-Winter Dollar Days get under way to continue through Saturday. On these Dollar Days, outstanding personal and household merchandise for every need and purpose will be offered to shoppers at real money-saving prices, with exceptional and rare values at one dollar.

Leo D. Gaument, Chairman of the Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce, predicts the greatest Dollar Days sale in Lowell's history. The members of the committee in charge have done everything possible to assure the success of these Dollar Days.

HAVERHILL DOLLAR DAYS

The semi-annual merchandising event—HAVERHILL DOLLAR DAYS—is announced by L. N. Mehlberg, Chairman of the Dollar Days Committee, for Friday and Saturday, February 14 and 15.

These Dollar Days have become recognized as the outstanding bargain days of the year. The Haverhill merchants, having had Dollar Days in mind for several months, have made their merchandise commitments accordingly, thus securing the lowest prices for several years. These savings will in turn be passed on to the shoppers on these two days.

You CAN HELP....

It takes time to get out a newsmagazine such as ours. When you bring in an article for the Townsman, that's only the start of a process which takes considerable time . . . editing, rewriting, setting the type, correcting, revising, putting it in the pages, printing, folding, inserting, stitching and mailing.

You can help by getting your articles in the office just as early as possible, Monday or Tuesday if possible.

RUBBER WORKERS TO RECEIVE VACATION

Some 425 Tyer Rubber employees will receive an extra pay check on February 28, in accordance with a new plan whereby all employees who have been with the firm five years will be given a week's vacation with pay. The plant will be shut down for a week at that time for inventories and repairs, and most of the eligible employees have expressed a desire to receive the extra week's pay at that time rather than waiting for summer vacation. Each employee will receive two percent of their 1940 earnings.

CLAIMS WPA WORKER BROKE WINDSHIELD

Windshield-breaking is the newest of W.P.A. projects, according to a report filed yesterday at the police station. Mr. Bailey of River road reported that he was driving along Andover street near Beacon street, South Lawrence, Tuesday afternoon, when he came upon a W. P. A. crew working on the road. He blew his horn to pass by, and one of the men picked up a stone and threw it through his windshield. A complaint to the foreman and to the W. P. A. agent did no good, until Officer John Deyermond accompanied him to the agent. Mr. Bailey now has a new windshield.

With their record of economy, beauty and durability, I believe there is nothing finer to be bought."

The store is also dealer for the Bendix Home Laundry, Chambers gas ranges and Crawford combination ranges.

GIVE THOSE SENTIMENTS A

Voice!

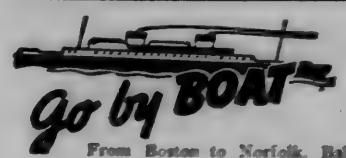

How sad to contemplate the time
When lovers, far apart,
Would pine and languish
each for each,
Because they couldn't put in speech
What bound 'em heart to heart!

Then thank your lucky stars because
The lady of your choice
Is waiting somewhere on the line
To welcome, as a valentine,
The magic of your voice!

LIBRARY NOTES

New books at the Memorial Hall Library:

"Zero Hour" (Benet and others). Six brilliant interpretations by people of varying temperaments and experience have contributed to this startling plea for more alertness on the part of the American people in the present world situation.

"Make Bright the Arrows" (Millay). Edna St. Vincent Millay has written these poems with the definite purpose of stirring the reader to positive thought and action.

"Murder Is a Serious Business" (Dean). A worthy successor to the author's first book, Murder is a collector's item. Antiques and murder, with a delightful feminine sleuth.

"Where Do We Go From Here?" (Laski). Laski bases this important declaration of the stand which democracy must take at once on the answers to three questions: What is the flaw in democracy? What is the true nature of the force against which England is fighting? What chages in democracy are necessary for world freedom?

"Time For a Quick One" (Fishback). This is a not-to-be-overlooked collection of light poetry; poems with a surprising twist as a climax to each.

"My Name Is Aram" (Saroyan). A series of incidents in the growing up of a young Armenian. Delightful and amusing sketches.

"A Pocketful of Wry" (McGinley). Delightful verse in the lighter vein, yet beneath the surface there is often a thread of surprising and touching philosophy.

"Valley of the Sun" (Kelland). In an early American setting the author has placed the scene of this struggle of a man and woman—and a man against man—and all three against nature.

"Modern Marriage" (Popenoe). As director of the Institute of Family Relations, Dr. Popenoe is well qualified to present this discussion of marriage.

"Kingdom of Innocents" (Cram). A wish made them more than human—always to be young, innocent, and wise—not to be like other mortals—and life taught them that they would want to be just a man and a woman.

"The Vanishing Virginian" (Williams). In this entertaining life of her father, Robert Davis Yancey, the author brings us a vivid human story of life in Virginia during one of the most carefree periods in American history. There is the same charming quality in her writing as that which made "Life with Father" such a favorite.

"Foreign Devils in the Flowery Kingdom" (Crow). Carl Crow paints a new picture of the Chinese—this time from their position as host to "foreigners." A human book about an interesting people.

"Mr. Tompkins in Wonderland" (Gamow). Modern physics written for the layman, with brilliance as well as humor. George Gamow is Professor of Theoretical Physics in George Washington University. Another book, "The Birth and Death of the Sun" by Gamow is also worth reading.

"A Winter in Arabia" (Stark). The day to day life of the people of an Arabian town recorded as the author observed them in the winter spent on an excavating expedition.

"The Face is Familiar" (Nash). A few of the poems from "I'm a stranger here myself" have been included in this new collection. Some of the verses have never appeared in book form. For the person who delights in "quoting" here is a treasure-house of material.

"Freedom; it's Meaning" (Anshen). The meaning, history and future of freedom are discussed by forty of our most eminent contemporaries.

"A Treasury of American Songs." (Downes and Siegmeister). Simple arrangements for voice and piano of almost two hundred songs, ranging from early hymns to jazz classics. The text supplies a splendid background for each song.

"With Love and Irony." (Lin Yutang). Sketches, essays and satires as delightful as anything in the "Importance of Living" are collected here by the author from his contributions to Chinese and American periodicals.

"Oriental Assembly." (Lawrence). A. W. Lawrence has brought out the unpublished writings of his famous brother and has added a remarkable group of photographs taken in the parts of the East inaccessible to Europeans. The suppressed introductory chapter to the "Seven Pillars of Wisdom" is included.

"Hostages to Peace." (Blatz). In a series of letters to an American mother, Dr. Blatz suggests ways to teach a school-age child the lessons of tolerance, compromise and cooperation.

"Directions in Modern Poetry." (Drew and Sweeney). Elizabeth Drew, a critic, and John L. Sweeney, a poet, combine their talents in this appreciation of modern poetry. They aim to present the reason as well as the background and possible future of this day's verse.

WHERE WERE YOU ON THE NIGHT OF FEBRUARY 14, 1940?*

Memories are short, but few will forget the hazards of that night a year ago - nor the bitter cold and ice preceding and following it.

Now is the time when wise New Englanders seek the comfort and security of traveling via Boston and Maine. They know New England weather - its quick-changing temperatures with icy highways and snow-blocked roads. They know the warm comfort and the speedy and economical service on our trains. That's why thousands of people are every day commuting by Boston and Maine - enjoying the pleasure of riding in a well-heated car that brings them to their destination safe and sound - relaxed and refreshed.

★ Feb. 14, 1940 - Date of the 1940 Big Blizzard - it paralyzed traffic and left many an automobile snow-bound on the streets for three to four days, and the always reliable trains were the only means of transportation to or from many communities.
